Dear Readers

If you picked up a copy of the 2018 ASAP Directory of After School Programs, I trust you share our belief that every child deserves the opportunity to discover activities and experiences that will enrich and excite them. I trust you would agree that every child deserves access to safe spaces and mentors who will help them flourish. I trust you would understand how important after-school programs are for working parents who use the hours after school to provide for their families.

That’s why we need your help. The ASAP Directory is a testament to the amazingly diverse array of quality after-school programs that exist in every corner of our city, and yet thousands of children remain unsupervised and unengaged after school every day. That’s what we are asking you to help us spread the word about the ASAP Directory so that every family knows where to turn to keep their children safe, keep them active, and keep them learning after school.

Thankfully, we are joined in this important effort by many partners who are committed to the well-being of children and families throughout Philadelphia. We would like to begin by thanking the wonderful presenting sponsors of the 2018 ASAP Directory, the Philadelphia Media Network and Wells Fargo. This year, thanks to their support, the ASAP Directory will be featured in both the Daily News and the Inquirer, enabling us to reach hundreds of thousands of new readers.

We are also most grateful for our key partners who are helping raise awareness for the importance of after school, including the City of Philadelphia’s Out-of-School Time Initiative, United Way 211, Broke In Philly, and Resolve Philadelphia.

So please join ASAP and our many partners in sharing this directory and its online version (phillyasap.org/directory) with all the parents and all the young people in your life. Together, I trust we can make Philadelphia a safer, healthier, and smarter city for our children, one after-school program at a time.

— Justin Ennis, ASAP Executive Director

About ASAP

ASAP’s mission is to develop and support high-quality after-school activities and resources to empower youth and strengthen communities in Philadelphia. In addition to this directory, ASAP coordinates the following citywide after-school initiatives:

ASAP Chess: With 170 clubs meeting weekly and competing monthly, ASAP Chess develops the problem-solving and strategic-thinking skills of more than 2,500 youths.

ASAP Debate: Through ASAP Debate, over 450 youths in 45 middle and high school clubs explore important issues while building critical reading and public-speaking skills.

ASAP Drama: For more than 1,100 youths in 40 clubs, ASAP Drama nurtures young people’s powers of expression, teamwork skills, and cultural knowledge through participating in group performances and attending professional productions.

ASAP Scrabble: Through weekly play and citywide events, ASAP Scrabble strengthens the essential building blocks of literacy and mathematics for more than 1,300 students in 93 clubs.

For more information about ASAP and how you can help us keep kids safe and engaged after school, visit phillyasap.org or call 215-545-2727.

Acknowledgments

Thank you to all after-school providers and youth practitioners who answered the call to be listed in the ASAP Directory. Your work is vital to the well-being of our city and we appreciate your partnership.

Congrats to ASAP’s Directory team led by Paul Carroll, Carolyn Liang, Tori Bakey, Caroline Henley, and tech guru Stan Coplan on our most comprehensive publication to date. Thank you to all providers who submitted photos to this year’s directory and special thanks to Rachel Utain-Evans for her wonderful chess, debate, Scrabble, and drama photos.

And finally, ASAP would like to express its enormous gratitude to the Philadelphia Daily News and the Inquirer, and send a big thank you to our friends Michelle Bjork, Gina Esposito, Denise Harper, and Jon Snyder for all of their efforts.

What Happens After Graduation Starts With What Happens After School!

Research shows that students in after-school programs benefit in many ways, including:
• Better school performance
• Better school attendance
• Better relationships with peers and adults
• Reduced risky behaviors
• More physical activity
• Greater sense of belonging

Vetri Community Partnership

211 N. 13th Street, Philadelphia Pa.
215-600-2630

Vetri Community Partnership empowers children and families to lead healthy lives through fresh food, hands-on experiences, and education. We believe in giving children the knowledge they need to make informed decisions about their health and become a voice for healthier choices in their communities. Our culinary and nutrition education programs are active at more than 75 sites in the Philadelphia area. For more information, visit vetricommunity.org.

In addition to benefiting kids, access to after-school programs supports the financial well-being of working families in our city. For this reason, we are happy to welcome a new media partner for the 2018 ASAP Directory, Broke In Philly. A project of Resolve Philadelphia, Broke In Philly is a collaborative initiative among 21 local news organizations to provide in-depth, nuanced, and solutions-oriented reporting on the issues of poverty and the push for economic justice in Philadelphia. ASAP is grateful for their help spreading the word about the ASAP Directory to families and caregivers citywide. For more information, visit brokeinphilly.org.
How to use ASAP’s Directory

This directory provides parents, caregivers, and youth workers with information on thousands of recreational and enriching after school programs in Philadelphia. Here are a few tips to help find the right program for you:

- Sites are listed alphabetically by zip code
- Listings begin with the site name, followed by the activity provider if different from the site itself. Listings also include a contact name (if provided), a phone number and a list of activities (if available at publication time).

- Indicates that there may be fee to enroll at the site
- Indicates that financial assistance may be available for qualifying families
- Indicates that the site provides transportation
- Indicates the site offers services in different languages
- Indicates that the site is handicap accessible

In most cases, programs at public, charter, and parochial schools are only available to students enrolled at those schools, while libraries, recreation and community centers are open to neighborhood kids. However, it’s always best to contact schools directly to see if their programs are open to the public.

All information is subject to change. We strongly encourage calling the phone number provided for the most up-to-date information.

Additional information for sites and after school programs can be found on the “Directory” page on ASAP’s website (phillyasap.org).

If you know of an after school program located in Philadelphia not listed in this directory, please contact Paul Carroll at pcarroll@phillyasap.org or 215-545-2727, ext. 11.

The information in this directory was provided by each site and is not an endorsement by ASAP.
